Message From The Head

It is early July and you have left the campus for a well-deserved summer break. There are still a few familiar faces as the BCS Summer School swings into action but it certainly isn't the same. The pace is more relaxed, as is the dress – most of us in shorts and sandals – and our focus is on next year.

Before we make that leap ahead, let's take one last look at this past year. Perhaps the most noteworthy achievement is the success of our graduating Form VII class, all of whom will head off to university, college or on exchange. They have been offered over $600,000 in scholarships and financial assistance from Canadian and American universities and I am sure they will use the skills they have acquired here to be successful in the next step of their lives. I wish them good luck in the years to come.

Do such successes happen by accident? Of course not...it takes talented and dedicated teachers to motivate, to tutor, to cajole, to critique and to praise the work and effort of each student. BCS celebrated teaching excellence this year as two faculty members received special awards: Cathy Evans and Albert MacDonald. I feel that they are representative of the BCS teaching staff and that each teacher has special strengths that they use to bring out the best in their students.

The real success of school life is found within the students themselves. It is what each of you do that together adds up to a school that challenges you to be your best. Not all of you have yet taken up that challenge, but I keep hoping that your next year will be the year. If you wait too long, it will be too late and you will have missed your chance. And for the many of you that have stretched yourselves and reached levels that perhaps even you weren't sure you could, don't stop! Every success you have encourages us to offer you a new challenge and to help you find a way to meet it and that's what makes BCS special.

Thanks to each of you for the role you played in this past year.

Far, far away, through the dark woods of the CHAPMAN PATH, lay a house with haunted walls, where only the brave survive and only the strong can live. But hey, even strong guys can do stupid things. View - Combing his hair.

Comrade Artem - "Must krrrrush Kapitalism."
Karim - "Hey, where's Phil?" Check the trashcan!
Phil - Tied to a chair, trashed in the trashcan, chased around the house, ... man, does this kid EVER shut up?

View (again) - Still combing his hair

Zarek - Thanks Hugo! You got me gated twice this year!

Sep& - "...But in Iran, we do it like this."

Frank - SHOCKER!

Pierre - Peeeeeeeeeee!

Chuck - "Want me to tell you a secret? It's 4:44 a.m. and I see dead people!"

Eric - Finally we have a rapper WITH TALENT in this house! (no offense to the rest of our rappers)

Danny - Wake up Danny! You've slept 15 hours and you are late as usual.

Karl - Welcome back to BCS everyone. And oh, Karl, YOU are on dishes for the next two weeks.

View (again) - Still combing his hair

Adrian - Where is our DVD?!

Juan Carlos - Have fun in the McNaughton Showers.

Shuske - "Let's play BS, ORRRRRA!!"

Mr.D - Hey, what's burning in my garden?

Mr.V - OH. She's cute... but not as cute as my wife.

Mme Morin - Septieme form taisser vous!

Mr. Maltby - Would you like to read Karl's new magazine?

Shaun - Sit and Rotate, buddy!

View (again) - Still combing his hair

And our extended family who never leave us alone:

Phil Myhal - Where are you going to be next year without Chapman?

Danielle- Frank? Calculus? Or Sleep?

Hugo - Sorry, no monkeys allowed!

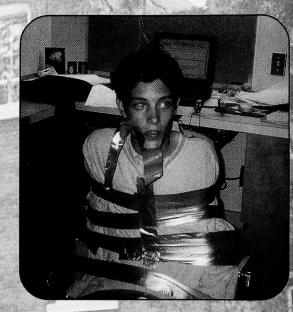

Jessica Dell - No Jess, your chem is wrong!

So you see, though we are perfect in every way, even those as great as we have moments of stupidity.

View (when will this kid stop!) - Still combing his hair.

Smith oh Smith

It. 9:30 at night, there is not a teacher in the house and every Smither wants to get crazy. David Durand from gimp to p**p Ju...lien straight out the hood! Represent Jerusalem. Josh 'the guitar yielder' and Daniel the short smoker long lung. Across the hall, two pairs of young players (well ... one): Pablo the 'Americom' and Fahim.... The last junior room on the level, Travis the tuck opener and TV watcher cannot get closer to the television, while Steve plays piano during prep. Now our crocodile hunter Nick from Australia is the coolest teacher on duty. On what? Nothing forget it. Going up the stairs, the real night life starts. Ronak, our benevolent head of house. He is also called Smoky for not so obvious reasons but it doesn't really matter. Opposite side, a few feet away, is Kevin thesnake and Ian's braindead, free server of the "Smith Network." Next to this marvelous couple is Simon the German, missing his twin of opposition. Hugo the mad café drinker and Li working hard because he has not time for you to waste. In the two other rooms beside his are Axel, Paul and Dave. These three boys are all seeing, all knowing true leaders of the Smith house spirit, against the grain as always and high above the rest on the top floor. Johannes, where is he? Our replacement BU - Shawn - a very good relation in the house and thanks for all the times where... The Reid family, well, you may rest at ease! Mr. Jackson writing characteristics, Mr. Crowther waiting for this write-up, while Mr. Liverpool comes in the common room to wreak havok and try to rip off every inhabitant of the closet house to Len, by bike.

Well, a glorious year and lots of memories that will stay in each of us for quite a while.

MCNAUGHTON

All was well in the land of McNaughton. Students were working diligently but something essential was missing in the picture. Where was Rupert? Our search began in the fourth floor corridor. While opening the door to the first room, there was a quick shuffle and Seb jumps to his feet. There is a large mound in the corner of the bed, could that be Clement? Rodney on the other hand hasn't even been paying attention to what's been happening and becomes frustrated with his computer, so he drops his stereo on it. Walking over to the next room confused, we peek in and find Vlad to his roommate's rescue and has started to peel Scott off the wall from last night's incident. Still in search for Rupert, we move on. We peek into yet another room and find Armen, as always, keeping it real with the ladies and even giving his desperate brother Parseh a few pointers. Eric on the other hand hasn't seen daylight for the last three days. Apparently he's moved into tuck to better service McNaughton. What a true die hard McNaughton boy!

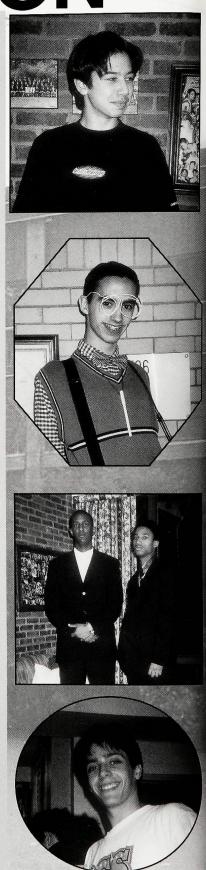

We stumble into John's room and we see him experimenting with Mitch, trying new and advanced methods of flipping. Captain Quebec has made quite the hole for himself. Gribble clothing industries has been raided of some of it's most valuable inventory and infuriated, Greg runs around in search of his belongings. Who could have taken them. Peter is still under the Christmas tree, living in the imaginary world where his parents and family members are trying to get him to stop. Alexi bursts down the door with his "masculine" arms and sits us down for another of his great epics of Montreal that include this "beautiful" girl. One thing led to another... you know the story. His "abs" still hurt. But where is Ricardo? Must be in Mo's room "typing" his "homework" on Mo's "keyboard." After surviving a minor concussion, J.P. Taillon has managed to reclaim his title as the primary 7th form target. When asked about Rupert, Nick jumps off his bed infuriated and states that he is a house captain and that he has privileges. Colin still believes he is superior to those around him and decides to walk into the 7th form corridor as he pleases. He is soon reminded that he is inferior. Sohei goes on rambling about his soap opera dilemma with Phil Cortes and an unnamed Japanese woman. He resorts to the nine iron. Rupert is still missing, where can he be? Peeking into the next room, Lee is caught red handed with baby blue shorts and a Phat Farm shirt. "Where did you get those Lee?" "Oh, in DC man I swear!" Now we make our way over to the next room as we see another late night session of body massaging for Mike and Yuichi... we didn't bother to ask. Starting to worry about the whereabouts of Rupert, we bump into Parseh, who after trying to fight with Chris is also reminded of how inferior he is. Usually Bouchard would come to his rescue but today he got his leash stuck in the door and Steph isn't there to set him free.

Into the wonderful world of 7th form. Sang is running around the halls because someone's hijacked Holland delivery service. However, backups are promptly on the way. Stauffer is out looking for a way to prove that he did have a relationship with some barmaid in Tremblat, sure... The Czar Wally is in the corner with a bag of Doritos. Bored, he calls a Censorian meeting. It's time for a little initiation. Moments later all that can be heard from Scott's room is "Ooooohhhh!" All of a sudden, herds of girls come running in and asking for the ladies man Chris. He shoves them all off to do his homework. We hear a slight noise coming from the downstairs bathroom, "HEEEESSAAAWW" Oh it's just Ali shaving again.

Queen Diane hears the suffering of the Children so she decides to bake a cake, make some spaghetti, cut Wally's hair, and sew Rodney's blazer all at the same time. Nelson the Bald decides it's time for Robert to wake up, but he still won't budge. I guess he's S.O.L. Unaware of Rupert's whereabouts, we ask Stephan where Rupert is, and he shows us a quick lesson on the Angler fish and it's attraction to the elephant trunk and it's brains. Tessier is so determined to catch John out of his room during prep that he comes repelling from the McNaughton roof, crashing into John's room screaming, "HAHAHA I caught you Tourist!" Pfliger finally decides to leave BCS for the PGA tour, still believing that he can beat Tiger Woods. If not, he can sure bounce the ball down the stairs under the chair and off the table better than anyone.

Checking everywhere for Rupert, the house is stumped. Where could he be? We journey downstairs to the TV room to see a familiar figure lying on the couch, chuckling to an Ally McBeal episode. Could it be? Yes! Rupert you're alive! Thank goodness we found you!

Thanks for the great year! On behalf of the 7th form, PeAcE! We outta'da'hiizouse...

Ross House is different from all other houses. I think this is because we have a houseparent who whistles all day and gets up in front of chapel to lead people in song. What is also different in Ross is the people. First off we have Phil Myhal, a seventh form, a lifer, who when asked what he has done for the house replies "I haven't moved into Chapman yet." Another interesting thing about Phil is his third and forth form possé, which consists of his slightly younger clone Chris Durrant, Danny "what's going on" Hickie, Tim "I have too much Energy" Jervis-Read, Michele "I can sew" Antoine-Xhignese and Russel "do I really have to speak" Butler. We also were fortunate enough to have a couple of new second formers this year who never seem to be far apart: Zeph, Chris, Vincent and Iskender. We're not sure if they have separate thoughts or not because we never see them apart. Another one of our famous second formers, Richard thinks it more fun to go through closed doors instead of opening them first. Then there is Pascal who left part way through the year for far off Germany. We're convinced there was a girl involved. When I went to ask Jerome what I should write for his article, I had a really hard time finding him... We have two kids who ride scooters to school, Josilito and Louis Charles. We have Jordan or Jay as they like to call him, known as the Form III Stud. We have David who we are constantly telling "Ross House is not a gymnasium." We have Paul who has escaped Galt only to end up at BCS and Andy, who also escaped Galt to become a house captain and volunteer to dress up as a woman for carnival. Elliot, Adrian and Antoine form the SAF (students against French). Antoine also doubles in his secret life as a Ross HC. In fourth form we have a giant named Josh, and Colin who stands beside him. Hey Sam, Steroids have side effects and Thierry it's time to take a shower. If P.A. ever got off the ice I might be able to tell you what he would say... There's Kevin, your bikini wearing HC ...Clement, leave Seb alone... we also have Shuni who's a great guy and will go very far in life. That leaves me, Chris, another one of you friendly neighborhood house captains who was lucky enough to help with the yearbook and was able to rewrite this article when I was told what was originaly submitted would not be acceptable. So well, here it is. It's been a great year.

It's 7:47 and still the common room is empty. As the bell rings Mary Sweeny, our Jitsu-Jitsu-Hi Chi Warrior is still looking for someone to tie her tie. In chapel, even if half the house is sitting in the back, rather than our seats, we can still hear Steph Broadhurst clapping to her own unique beat. No one dares to sit in Audrey and Caro's seat, fearing the consequences that would await them after chapel if they did. While Megan Irving is told not to sing so loud by the Smith boys, Kathy Kranz forgets the envelope on her way out. Amy is always the first back. And as we all return to the common room; we pass our juvenile delinquents: Jamie, Kelly and Kym's empty lockers. Brianna is looking as cute as ever, while Eithne and Justine grow taller by the minute. Krystina and Janina giggle in the corner, the second form girl power group, Emile H, Bridget, Kaitlin and Jennah, the last of a long run, are all admiring Catherine C.C. belly dancing around Ross House. Shisato brags about being the driving force behind our carnival skit victory, while Emma the dino Diva doesn't agree. Christelle hits the slopes, a tennis racket in hand, while Sarah M. is trying out for Sr. Rugby team, Jennifer Cassar is tanning in California and M-Pier is away at a hockey game. Lily's singing fills the air while Leia and Maryse attempt to decorate Ross and Jennifer Kranz, our own Greek Princess is nowhere to be found. As the day passes slowly but surely, Kumiko opens her Japanese magazine and Gigi gets a headache before band. Julie leaves Ross in her Tim Horton's uniform, repeating to herself "yes we have bagels." Finally, we gather around our precious table, reminiscing about how good Mrs. Holland's squares used to be...

It's 9PM on a typical Glass House evening. Upstairs, Melina and Daniella are exploring the world of prep alternatives with DVD movies, while Grayson dances in her room and Joannie opens Glass' own Provigo Store. Christina studies, trying set the Guinness record for most times on an Effort List while Tomoko listens to Japanese tunes and plays with her Gameboy. Jess B and Arpun waltz by, showing off their sixpacks and wishing they had boyfriends while Ariane models another new outfit and Jena leans out her window to encourage runners and to set up a date for Amelia. Meanwhile, Chelsey and Jess Dell are reviewing the latest oriental animation techniques, Steph Brockerhoff seems to be swearing in German as she leads the cheering section for European soccer teams. She and Simone promise again that they were at the Lion just to try the wings and to meet the Choir master. The common room doors are shut but we can still hear Barbara on the phone. Rinko is baking cookies for Phil's birthday, Jessika NK is making her famous apple crisp with Smarties on top, Riddhi is cooking her noodles in the teapot, Melissa is eating 10 oranges, and Julia is pleading for someone to open the Tuck Shop. Helen has just invited us all to try her magnificent Austalian Pavlova. Anna and Stella, out for a nature walk, by mistake stumble upon the boys' smoking area - thankfully they are rescued by Mrs Harding. Another Lucky Strike anyone?

Meanwhile in the hallways, Sarah L. (alias Coolio) monitors washroom cleanliness while singing "Food Glorious Food", while Ashlea practices her dance moves and concert solo. Alley is decorating her ceiling with stickers while adding creative ideas to the young romance novel being written by Emily, Sarah H and Max, dedicated with love to TOD Julie, who is bouncing baby Emma B while folding laundry and reading a story to Jonathan. There is a rush to the Mexican Candy Store where Norma and Jimena are pressing their hair with the iron that went missing 5 days ago. Too cool for Junior activities, Sam picks out movies with BU Erin and the Z-man, and spends the evening loading another screensaver and tidying her room. Mariana, replacing all of the House Captains who are watching Survivor, tries valiantly to get Adrianne and Ritu off the phones while listening to the many reasons that Maria and Sofia have for not being in their rooms before Lights Out. BU students, Joy and Laura are plotting the next Easter Egg Hunt wakeup surprise, while Leslie creates a beaded and tie-dyed thong for Stella, Mrs. K is baking a birthday cake and Mrs. M is arranging a bus to take the house to a farewell brunch at the Delta and to a Rave at the Quebec City Summit. Just another night for the flowers that grow in the hot house we call Glass!
